PROJECT CAIN by Geoffrey Girard | Kirkus Reviews

Sixteen-year-old Jeff Jacobson had never heard of Jeffrey Dahmer, the infamous serial killer who brutally murdered seventeen people more than twenty years ago. But then Jeff discovers he was constructed in a laboratory only eight years ago, part of a top-secret government cloning experiment called Project CAIN.

Project Cain is a companion novel to Cain's Blood, one of the darkest and gripping thrillers I've read to date. The companion novel concept is interesting in that Cain's Blood is an adult thriller, but Project Cain is intended to be 16-year-old Jeff Jacobsen's (Jeffrey Dahmer clone) journalized version of events, and is considered YA.

Project Cain by Geoffrey Girard - Goodreads

Sixteen-year-old Jeff Jacobson is astonished to learn he's the clone of Jeffrey Dahmer and that the man who has raised him is the lead scientist on the cloning project. When his dad vanishes, and six of the cloned killers lay waste to their private school, Department of Defense agent Shawn Castillo takes Jeff with him on the trail of the killers.

Project Cain is not intended as a quick skim for a distracted reader - it explores in detail what happens after a fifteen year old teen discovers everything he's ever known is a lie. Even worse: not only has he been genetically engineered from the DNA of a monster, he's quite possibly destined to repeat that monster's atrocities.

Athens area where conferences, sports events, reunions, and other events were once held. The building permit for the project was approved on May 20.

Project Cain Paperback - September 2, 2014

Cain's Blood and Project Cain are two different novels written about the same fictional event. In both, scientists have been doing unpleasant things for the military and these unpleasant things escape. The two books explore the trouble/adventure that ensues... and simply do so differently.

But Jeff's life changes forever when the man he'd thought was his father hands him a government file telling him he was constructed in a laboratory only seven years ago, part of a top-secret government cloning experiment called 'Project CAIN.' There, he was created entirely from Jeffrey Dahmer's DNA.

As you walk through Cain and Abel (Genesis 4:1-16,25-26) with your kids this week, you will want to help them understand how serious sin is and how we are all susceptible to its pull. We often hear people talk about their sin with a “the Devil made me do it” or a “the world is pulling me down” mentality.
